By RALPH DIGHTON
Associated Press Science Writer
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Historic pictures taken by Ranger 7 are pretty good evidence men can land on the moon without much change required for spaceships now being designed.

That's the consensus of a board of scientists who Friday night released 10 of the 4,316 sensational photographs Ranger 7 snapped in the final 16 minutes and 40 seconds before it crashed on the moon at 8:25 a.m. (EST) Friday morning.

EXCELLENT PHOTOS
The first close-up pictures ever taken of the moon — termed 1,000 times better than any made heretofore from spacecraft or with earth telescopes—showed that even its vast, apparently smooth "seas" are pocked with craters, some as small as dishpans.

There may be some dust on the moon, in layers up to a foot thick, but not deep enough to bury a landing vehicle, the scientists concluded. And, underneath the dust, evidence indicates, is a hard primary layer. Whether it would support the weight of a large manned spaceship cannot be determined from photographs alone.

PRESS CONFERENCE
To these conclusions announced after several hours study Friday night, additional evaluations will be added today at a presidential press conference.

Dr. William H. Pickering, director of Jet Propulsion Laboratory which made Ranger 7 and released the first pictures, left late Friday to attend the White House session.

President Johnson earlier telephoned congratulations to Pickering and others at the laboratory, which was much criticized in recent months for six straight failures in the $200 million Ranger moon research program.

World Press Hails Ranger 7

By The Associated Press
America's Ranger 7 moon shot drew world-wide praise today, including compliments from the Russians who were quick to point out that they snapped the first lunar photographs five years ago.

Some British newspapers said the shot put the United States ahead of the Soviet Union in the space race. Most of the world press hailed it as one of the great advances in lunar astronomy, without reference to competition between the two major powers.

News that the United States had the first close-up pictures of the moon won front-page headlines in major capitals even before the photographs were made public.

Soviet Professor Gigan Meikunov called the shot "brilliant," Moscow Radio reported.

Report Johnson Wants Attorney General To Manage His Campaign

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has asked Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to manage his presidential campaign, informed sources said today.

They said the offer was made Wednesday at the same time Johnson told Kennedy he was eliminating him from consideration as a vice presidential candidate.

"I don't want to get into that," Kennedy said Friday when asked about reports of the offer before he left for Hyannis Port, Mass., for the weekend. Kennedy aides refused to be drawn into a discussion.

HEADED JFK DRIVE
Johnson reportedly summoned the 38-year-old attorney general to the White House around noon Wednesday and told him he was not being considered for the second spot on the Democratic ticket.

Then the President suggested that Kennedy consider taking the job of campaign manager — the task he handled for his brother, the late President John F. Kennedy, in 1960.

Later, presidential adviser Mc-

George Bundy, a carryover from the Kennedy administration, called the attorney general, presumably at Johnson's behest. He wondered if Kennedy shouldn't voluntarily withdraw from vice presidential consideration — perhaps by "leaking" such a decision to a newspaper columnist.

CALLED RIDICULOUS

Kennedy declined, pointing out that as attorney general he shouldn't be and wasn't running for the vice presidency and that to announce a "withdrawal" would seem ridiculous.

Thursday, at a news conference of an ideal vice presidential candidate, Johnson gave his description. He should be acceptable everywhere, Johnson said.

Kennedy is unpopular in the South.

Then, that evening, Johnson announced he had excluded all members of the Cabinet, including Kennedy, and those who meet regularly with it.

Kennedy is believed to wield considerable influence over Democratic machinery in a number of key states and it is this knowledge, several sources suggest, that led Johnson to ask Kennedy's services as campaign manager.

CRASH VICTIM IS BLAMED FOR FATAL MISHAP

Blame for the truck accident at Zora the afternoon on July 24 was placed by a coroner's jury Friday afternoon on John H. Kramer, 19, Lancaster college boy, who was the victim of the fatal crash.

Five witnesses were called to testify at the inquest Dr. C. G. Crist, Adams County coroner, conducted in the courthouse at 4 o'clock.

Witnesses agreed that Kramer, who entered the intersection in a truck from the direction of Fairfield, did not stop at his stop sign but drove into the path of an oncoming van truck. Noah E. Danner, 42, Uniontown, Md., driver of the other truck involved, was one of Friday's witnesses.

The jurors' verdict said they found no evidence to show that Danner had contributed in any way to the cause of the accident but believed that Kramer had failed to obey the stop sign at the intersection and had driven into the path of the Danner truck.

TRUCK CAUGHT FIRE

Testimony and photographs presented at the inquest showed the front of the Danner van, which was enroute from Taneytown to Fort Ritchie loaded with wooden staircases, struck the left side of the Kramer truck and pushed it off the highway.

The Kramer truck, a stake body vehicle, caught fire after the collision and Danner said he found flames coming into his truck cab from the Kramer truck after the collision. He was able to escape through the right door of his damaged cab while a companion of Kramer pulled Kramer from his truck. Kramer died 52 minutes after the accident in the Warner Hospital where he had been taken by ambulance. Severe brain damage caused the death, the coroner told the jury.

First witness was Robert Ziegler, Gettysburg, who showed pictures he had made of the scene and the wrecked trucks.

"DID ALL I COULD"
Danner was next to take the stand and estimated his own speed at 40 miles an hour before the crash. Because the other truck did not appear to be stopping for the intersection, Danner said he braked his truck and veered to the left in an effort to avoid a collision.

"I did all I could to avoid a collision," Danner testified. Danner, who suffered burns and ankle and other injuries, was using crutches at the inquest.

Don Ausherman, 18, York, who was driving a truck 200 feet to the rear of Kramer at the time of the crash, estimated Kramer's speed at 40 to 45 miles an hour but said Kramer did not obey the stop sign. "I saw the truck pull out and there was no sign

Father, Son Ask Court To Stop Enforcement Of Civil Rights Measure

By JAMES PURKS
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A father and his son, co-owners of a Birmingham restaurant, have asked federal court to enjoin U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy from enforcing the Civil Rights Act.

The case was referred to a three-judge panel, yet to be constituted.

The suit, submitted Friday by Ollie McClung and Ollie McClung Jr., owners of Ollie's Barbecue, also challenged the constitutionality of the public accommodations section of the civil rights measure. It was the second major court action filed on the new law in Birmingham within three days.

5TH LEGAL TEST
The action sets the stage for the fifth major legal test in the nation of the controversial public accommodations section. There have been two rulings so far — both in Atlanta — and the section was upheld.

On Wednesday, the Justice Department filed a suit here with Kennedy the only plaintiff, against 15 Tuscaloosa, Ala., eating places, seeking to enjoin them from a practice of discriminating against Negroes.

The McClungs said in their petition that they have refused service to Negroes inside the restaurant "in the lawful and legitimate exercise of their right to operate their business." They said they have long sold "take-out" orders to Negroes — to be eaten off the premises.

The owners said that, if forced to serve Negroes, their restaurant will suffer damages in excess of $10,000.

The petition contended that the restaurant does not cater to or strive to serve persons traveling in interstate commerce, and that most of its food is bought locally.

MOON SUCCESS PRODS PHOTO TRIPS TO MARS

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The U.S. moon shot jinx is broken and a parade of unmanned lunar expeditions will follow. But next on the space schedule are two picture-taking "fly-by" probes of Mars.

Both will be launched during a 28-day period starting in late October, a period that is favorable for reaching Mars. The trips will take eight months.

The planet comes into position as a target only once every two years and U.S. scientists want to collect as much data as possible this time in preparation for landing an unmanned craft on the next go-around.

Named Mariner 3 and 4, the two shots will closely resemble the Mariner 2 probe that successfully flew past Venus in 1962. The two Mariners are to fly by Mars, snap television pictures and gather scientific data.

The parade of moon expeditions—leading toward the Apollo man-to-the-moon program before 1970—will include two more Rangers and several launchings in two advanced programs, Surveyor and Lunar Orbiter.

The moon shot program is scheduled to resume in January with Ranger 8. It will have essentially the same mission as Ranger 7: closeup television pictures. The area and type of target it will seek will be determined after the Ranger 7 pictures are analyzed. Ranger 9, with a similar assignment, is to follow in February or March to conclude the Ranger project.

By then scientists expect to have a good idea of the general characteristics of the lunar landscape.

RESCUE SHAFT BEING DRILLED

CHAMPAGNOLE, France (AP) — Workers drilling a 32-inch wide escape passage for nine miners trapped 200 feet below the ground were expected to complete the shaft by midnight tonight.

But officials, wary of a possible setback, were reluctant to predict when the men, entombed in the mine chamber for more than four days, would be brought up.

A rockfall briefly cut communications with the trapped miners early today but officials said no one was injured and the delicate drilling job continued with the threat that it could trigger further rock falls.

Fourteen miners were trapped Monday in the cave-in of the limestone mine near the Swiss border.

Once the vertical shaft reaches the known survivors, the miners will be evacuated one by one with lift tackle equipment. They have been receiving food and other supplies through small pipe pushed through to the chamber Tuesday.

Parishioners Refuse To Have Historic Crucifix Repaired; Law Steps In

MONTECRETO, Italy (AP)—Parishioners in this northern mountain village have been told by provincial authorities to hand over their cherished crucifix in one week so it can be repaired, or the law will step in.

The controversy began several months ago when an art teacher from the nearby city of Modena saw the crucifix in the parish church and judged it to be a rare masterpiece by an unknown 12th Century artist.

The teacher told government fine arts officials that the crucifix badly needed repairing, and a team of specialists was dispatched.

VILLAGERS BALK

The specialists succeeded in moving the crucifix out of the church, but found themselves surrounded by grim-faced villagers who advised them to leave the crucifix alone and depart.

The art specialists left hurriedly. But the fine arts agency, insisting it has the right and duty to restore all valuable art works in its zone, asked the parish priest, the Rev. Tonino Cenacchi, to explain the situation to the parishioners.

Two days ago the heads of Montecreto's families met with Father Cenacchi. They listened attentively as he told them the crucifix would be returned to the church after restoration. Then they voted unanimously not to let it go.

Friday word came from Modena that, if the parishioners don't turn the crucifix over by Aug. 7, legal authorities will be asked to take it.

The crucifix is under lock and key in the home of the local sexton.

(Continued From Page 1) that he used his brakes," the witness said. He said Danner veered and slowed in an effort to avoid the crash.

STATEMENT READ

Charles Roberts, 19, South Mountain, who was parked near the scene, told his friends to "watch this" as the accident became imminent. He said it looked like Kramer drove through the stop sign intending to turn toward Emmitsburg but then swerved straight across and accelerated in an effort to get across in front of Danner.

Trooper Raymond R. Solinski of the Gettysburg substation of the state police, who investigated, testified about highway skid marks and then read a statement given him by Frank Phenegar, Strasburg R. 1, Kramer's companion, while Phenegar was in the Warner Hospital after the crash. The statement said he and Kramer were delivering stoves. He said he did not believe Kramer had stopped at the stop sign. Phenegar said he did not remember seeing one. He added that Kramer had tried to go straight across the road to avoid the Danner truck.

Members of the jury on the case were Robert Monahan, L. Glenn Shriner, Thomas C. Crist, Esther M. Shultz, Morris M. Steinhour Jr. and Hugh C. McIlhenry.

District Attorney Gerald Walmer and Attorney S. M. Raffensperger, who represented Danner, participated in the questioning of witnesses.

Hanover Will Use Emergency Water

HARRISBURG (AP)—Two Pennsylvania communities hard hit by summer drought will be permitted by the state Health Department to use emergency water supplies.

Harry A. DeWire, chief of the department's water supply section, announced Friday that permits have been authorized for Hanover in York County and Saxton in Bedford County.

Saxton and Hanover are the first communities to apply for emergency water permits this year. Last year, more than 39 communities in the state were forced to turn to emergency sources.

DeWire said Hanover will secure water through a pipeline running from a mine quarry several miles away. Saxton will resort to a well supply because of depletion of its usual upland reservoir supply.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An Upper Darby youth, who was accused of going absent without leave 10 days after he joined the Army, has been ordered released from active duty.

Robert J. Germanovich, 19, left Fort Eustis, Va., March 13 without authorized leave, authorities said. He was picked up a week ago by FBI agents, who found him at a friend's home in Philadelphia.

Judge Francis L. Van Dusen, of U.S. district court, freed Germanovich Friday but warned him he was liable to a $500 fine if he failed to appear at further proceedings.

Germanovich testified that he signed up only because recruiting sergeants promised him he could enter the Army as a private first class, since he had previously trained with the Pennsylvania National Guard.

The sergeants replied that Germanovich had agreed orally to become a regular private—without the "first class"—but admitted they failed to make out a new application.

Moon

University of Arizona, said the most significant thing about them is that they reveal no unanticipated problems to be met in the design of moon landing craft.

At least part of the area photographed by Ranger 7—a northern extension of the Sea of Clouds southwest of the center of the face of the moon—would be unsuitable for landing because of the large number of small craters, Kuiper said.

"If you want to land a ship you want to do it with as little damage as possible," he said. "So you pick an area where the ship is not likely to tip over or have to land on a litter of debris."

The thousands of tiny pock marks, he said, seemed to cluster at some distance from large primary craters such as Copernicus, about 200 miles north of the target zone.

This indicates the big craters were created by meteors and meteorites which exploded on impact and threw out fragments of many sizes, Kuiper explained.

Between the big primary craters and the clusters of secondary craters around them, however, are relatively "clean" areas which could be good landing sites, he said.

STUDY CRATERS

Dr. Eugene Shoemaker of the U.S. Geological Survey at Flagstaff, Ariz., another of the five experts who studied Ranger 7's photographs, suggested that future moon probes study the texture of the surface in the centers of large craters.

Shoemaker was asked if he would be afraid to step out of a landing craft onto the kind of surface shown in the photographs. He answered: "I wouldn't be very worried."

He said, however, there was no way to check the load-bearing strength of the moon's crust from photographs alone.

Miss Carol Ellen Holtz, Gettysburg R. 1, a Third Grade teacher in the Hanover Borough School District. Her undergraduate degree is from St. Joseph College, Emmitsburg. Her graduate concentration was in elementary education. Her research paper is entitled, "An Analysis of Literature to Identify the Factors Most Conducive to the Development of an Effective Writing Vocabulary."

William L. Coradetti, Pearl St., Arendtsville, a teacher in the Upper Adams School District. His undergraduate degree is from King's College at Wilkes-Barre. His graduate concentration was in guidance and counseling. His research paper is entitled, "A Study of the Dropout Problem at Biglerville High School."

Jack E. Wise, Gettysburg R. 2, a classroom teacher in the Gettysburg joint school system. His undergraduate degree is from Shippensburg State College. His graduate concentration was in English. His research paper is entitled, "Boswell: Why a Biographer?"

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Smith, Gettysburg R. 3, chairman of the department of Seventh Grade integrated studies for the Gettysburg School District. Her undergraduate degree is from Gettysburg College. Her graduate concentration was in secondary social studies. Her thesis is entitled, "Curriculum Changes Evident in the Secondary Schools of Adams County, During the Past Quarter Century (1937-1962)."

At the same graduation exercises, these Adams Countians will receive bachelor's degrees: Sandra S. Labofish, Fairfield R. 2; Philip G. Reaser, 650 Sunset Ave.; Clyde H. Spangler Jr., 120 Hanover St., New Oxford; Linda M. Will, Greenstone, and Rachel M. Scott, York St.

The county speech therapist is used more effectively on regularly scheduled visits based on end-of-year observations of students with speech problems.

Work of an advanced nature should be added or improved for rapid learners.

There should be a greater attempt to determine reading rates and reading levels of the students. It is further suggested that follow-up reading rate and reading level tests be given to show and record progress in this area.

The amounts of regular texts and literature anthologies seem adequate, but there should be an attempt made to update certain of the anthologies. Also it is suggested that a combination of high and low level anthologies covering generally the same authors and selections be made more readily available.

More opportunity be given to students to make announcements over the P.A. system.

Members of the English staff should attempt writing for publication regardless of type of material to be published. This would add to their prestige and better acquaint them with the problems faced by students.

More attention be given by the staff to trends and values of the trends in new concepts in the teaching of English.

More members of the department should be active in professional and related organizations in their subject field.

INSTRUCTIONAL MATERIALS

The committee commends the school for:

A library that is well organized and open to all students during the entire school day.

Recognizing the need for books as evidenced by the $4,000 spent for library materials this year. (The committee recommends a budget of $5,000 for next year.)

The librarian who is a very efficient person with enthusiasm for her work and a definite feeling for organization.

A library card catalog, shelf list, etc., which are up to date.

Library books that are attractive and in good condition.

Membership in the Shippensburg Film Library.

Library use on the part of the students which indicated good library training.

A librarian who is definitely a curriculum leader.

Excellent teacher-librarian cooperation in the use and purchase of printed materials.

Recommendations

The committee recommends that:

The library should subscribe to some foreign language periodicals.

The school should consider the possibilities for care of the audio-visual equipment and promote the use of that equipment.

The librarian should be relieved of her duties as a class adviser.

Film strips should be catalogued in the library card catalog.

The professional library needs expansion, both in books and periodicals.

A large audio room for the showing of films to large groups would be an asset.

A record should be maintained of the number of films, film strips, etc., used.

Some thought should be given to the training of high school boys in the maintenance and operation of audio-visual equipment.

The librarian might inaugurate a training program for student assistants.

Some attempt should be made to develop coordination among elementary, junior high, and senior high libraries.

The college catalogs should be weeded periodically to keep them up to date.

Principal's notes: The librarian has been relieved of her duties as a class adviser as of June, 1964.

The librarian has a training program in operation for student assistants.

Praise Senior High School Library; Suggestions Are Made By April Evaluators

A well organized library and the "reduction of boredom and disinterest" in English classes drew special praise from the committee of 16 visiting educators who evaluated the Gettysburg Senior High School last April.

They also made recommendations for more spending for new books by the school district and for offering more advanced work for rapid learners in the English department.

The full evaluation report on these two phases of the school follow in full together with two notes from High School Principal Charles E. Tressler on the recommendations on instructional materials:

ENGLISH

Comments

The committee commends the school for:

The organization and use of lay readers to increase composition output and the quality of written expression.

An adequate supply of instructional materials.

Variation of the classroom activity so that boredom and disinterest are reduced.

Planning and presentation of daily assignments and long range English units.

Cooperation between English staff and librarian in terms of book lists, library instruction, and projected refresher instruction for collegebound seniors.

Recommendations

The committee recommends that:

An increased elective program in the area of English be considered. It is further suggested that some variation be made for the nonacademic student in practical English electives.

The county speech therapist is used more effectively on regularly scheduled visits based on end-of-year observations of students with speech problems.

Work of an advanced nature should be added or improved for rapid learners.

There should be a greater attempt to determine reading rates and reading levels of the students. It is further suggested that follow-up reading rate and reading level tests be given to show and record progress in this area.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and
The Gettysburg Times
TEN YEARS AGO

Ill Health Led To Business Of Making Wooden Souvenirs For Tourist Trade; Began in '38; Illness led to the establishment of one of Gettysburg's most unique industries — the construction of wooden Gettysburg souvenirs for the tourist trade.

Ervin E. Hess, Gettysburg, R.
3, a foremost local producer of thousands of souvenirs sold annually to tourists, has had a number of battles with illness.

He came out of World War I with a 50 per cent disability in 1919. Two years later, in 1921, army physicians, examining him again, told him he had then just two years to live.

The fears of the doctors, however, proved wrong and Hess became an employee of the Gettysburg furniture factories. All went well for a time. For eight years he was an all-around man in the mill department of the furniture factory. For another eight years he was mill foreman.

Then illness struck again.
This time he was a married man with four children and a wife to support. Physicians told him he would have to limit the number of hours a day that he worked.

A native of York County, Hess is a "Pennsylvania Dutchman" who learned to speak English
after he started to school. Now, he says, he has forgotten most of the Dutch, although he can still understand others when they speak it, and can get along fairly well in speaking with Harry Stauffer, another local woodworker who enjoys using the "old tongue."

The children who aid in his woodworking during the earlier years of the industry are now
all away from home, but Mr.
and Mrs. Hess still continue the business. The children include Harold, who lives near his parents, and who was overseas 36 months in World War II serving as a tank operator from Sicily to the Rhine; Sgt. Kenneth Hess, who is now in service at Ft.
Meade; Viola, who is now Mrs.
Gordon Adair, Baltimore St.; and Labern, who saw duty in World War II and then was killed in 1950 in an auto accident.

General Nevins Buys Farm Adjoining Ike's: Earl W. and Nellie A. Brandon, Cumberland
Twp., sold to Gen. Arthur S.
Nevins, of Cumberland Twp.,
for $55,000, a 124-acre property in Cumberland Twp.

The land adjoins the farm of General Eisenhower on the south.

General Nevins served under General Eisenhower at SHAEF
during the Second World War and was his dairy farm manager before Eisenhower was elected President.

Local Girls Win At New Cumberland: Two Gettysburg riders were winners Saturday afternoon at the First Annual New Cumberland Horse Show sponsored by the New Cumberland
Ladies' Auxiliary.

Jane Bigham, W. Broadway, won a second place reserve championship in the three-gaied saddle horse stake class, and a second place in the horsemanship class for riders between the ages of 14 and 18 years. She rode Little Man.

Jane Donley, E. Broadway, earned a third in the pair class,
and a fourth in the horsemanship class. Her horse, Captain Koot, got a first place in the hunter hack class. Jack Sterling, York was the rider.

Today's Talk

THINGS YOU CAN TAKE
WITH YOU

I am glad the time seems to be approaching when the ambition to amass great wealth, merely for the amassing, is passing.

With all the sorrow and heart-aches that stream through human life, throughout the world, there seems to be an awakening to the fact that there is futility in any gain that does not spread its wings and bring its message of good and comfort to others.

Wars for material gain only end, finally, in a bankruptcy of ideals and morale. What price glory? The only wealth that nation, or any individual, can boast is that which is distributed. Nations of conquest have dwindled, and their former glory faded. In history is the sad story.

Things that you can take with you to your grave, are the things you have done to enrich the lives of others about you.
It is the supreme happiness of a life well spent. If you have gathered beauty, and lived it in your life, that beauty will be distributed after your little run is over. Your love of books, and your good deeds will leave a glow behind.

On one's walls may hang works of art that daily inspire and warm one's heart — but their creators have long left the stage. Yet they truly live, for they have left something of themselves that cannot die.

And still, while you live, you can take things about with you that will continually enrich each day of your life. The cheer you radiate, the faith you evidence, the hope that you own — these are things that you can take with you, and spread about lavishly, through every walk of your life.

You can take courage with you everywhere. You can take peace with you always, by banishing all fear from your heart.
Your world is the one you make and that is the world you take with you when you leave this one in which you now live!

person to see what is believed to be a mountain lion in the Harper's Hill-Natural Dam area.
Waybright saw the animal Monday afternoon while working in a wheat field on the Waybright farm, near Marsh Creek, along the Pennsylvania-Maryland line, about a mile from Harper's Hill.

Waybright saw the animal
about 100 yards away, leaped from the seat of the tractor he was operating, and ran to where he saw the animal, but by that time it had disappeared into neighboring woods.

The young farmer said the lion was crossing a small section of the wheat field cutting between two wooded areas. The animal seemed to be about 4½ feet long, with the tail almost as large as its body. He described its fur as "brownish and sort of orange" in color.

The animal was passing through wheat stubble about 18 inches high, according to measurements of the wheat made by Waybright after he arrived at the scene.

About a foot of the animal's body appeared above the wheat, and it was believed that it may have been crouching as it crossed the open field.

The report bolstered others from the general area, and residents of the section are planning a hunt as soon as someone reports immediately upon seeing the beast. Waybright said he did not know what the animal was at the time, nor did he know of plans for the hunt.

VALUATIONS

Upon my shelf they stand in rows,
A city-full of human souls,
Sages, philosophers and drolls—
Good friends that everybody knows.

The drunkard shoulders with
the saints;
The great are neighboring with
the quaint,
And they will greet me one and all
At any hour I care to call.

There's Dickens with his humble crew

That has no end of joy to give.
With all his people I can live
By moving just a foot or two.
Or should I choose to sail the sea,
Stevenson there will pilot me,
While jovial, lovable Mark Twain
Waits patiently my call again.

Sometimes a friend drops in and looks

My little sitting room around
And in a manner most profound, Remarks: "Your shelves are lined with books."

"Not books," I say, "but people wise

And men to cling to or despise.
Vast peopled cities, calm and still,

For me to visit when I will."

SWIM MARKS SHATTERED BY YANKEES

By DEREK SCHOEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ALTOS HILLS, Calif.
(AP)—Three world record shattering performances in Olympic swimming events boost America's chances at the Tokyo
Olympics higher today.

The fastest times ever clocked came in National AAU Men's and Women's Outdoor Championships which went into their third session today.

America's young swimmers—
all but one of them teen-agers—have smashed five world records, eight American marks and 12 meet records in the first two days of the four-day meet at Foothill College. No less than 22 records — including four world's, seven American and 11 meet marks—fell by the wayside Friday.

LEADS ASSAULT

Don Schollander, a powerstroking 18-year-old from Santa Clara, Calif., via Oregon, led the assault with a world recordshattering mark of 4 minutes, 12.7 seconds in the 400-meter freestyle.

Schollander took an early lead over Olympic star Murray Rose and fought off a last-ditch rally
by the Australian star, who finished second in 4:15.7.

Schollander bettered Rose's world record of 4:13.4, set in 1962 in Chicago. The two are virtually certain to meet in the same race in Tokyo.

SETS NEW MARK

Equally impressive was the world record-breaking effort of muscular Dick Roth of nearby Menlo-Atherton High School who set a world's mark of 4:48.6 in the 400-meter medley after barely qualifying for the finals.

Roth topped the record of 4:50.2 by West Germany's G.
Hetz in 1963 in defeating favored Roy Saari of El Segundo, Calif., in the meet's top upset.

The world's record in the women's 400-meter freestyle relay fell before the onslaught of the Santa Clara Swim Club quartet of Donna de Varona, Pokey Watson, Terri Stickles and Jana Haroun. The youngsters swam the distance in 4:08.5 to clip nearly a second off the world's mark of 4:09.4
set by an American national team in 1962.

Littlestown, Gettysburg Win LL Tourney Contests; Fairfield Here On Monday

Littlestown remained the only undefeated team in the tourney and New Oxford became the second squad eliminated from further play as a result of Friday evening's action in the third round of the annual Adams County Little League playoffs.

Upper Adams journeyed to Littlestown and suffered a 6-1 setback and Gettysburg stayed home to turn back New Oxford 9-2. The final rounds of the tournament begin Monday evening with all games to be staged on the Gettysburg Little League diamond. Monday's schedule will send Gettysburg (1-1) against Fairfield (1-1) and Wednesday the winner of that contest will tangle with Upper Adams (1-1). The survivor of both Monday's and Wednesday's games will then meet Littlestown (3-0) Friday evening for the championship. All games will start at 6 p.m.

LITTLESTOWN-UPPER ADAMS

Upper Adams jumped off to a 1-0 lead with its only score in the top of the first. Three straight singles by Rick Byers, Steve Gorman and Steve Guise resulted in the bottom of the second on singles by Jay Beamer, Dave Hartlaub and Dan Brown.

Littlestown tallied three times in the third to ice the verdict. Baron Sentez led off with a single and brother Barry followed with a walk. After Steven Dutterer fled to center, Beamer poked a single and went to second on an error which allowed the two Sentezes to score. Hartlaub then singled home Beamer. The winners added two security runs in the fifth on a single, a fielder's choice and an error.

Steve Gorman paced the Upper Adams' attack with a perfect three for three while Jay Beamer and Dave Hartlaub clouted a pair of safeties each for the winners. Steve Guise started on the hill for Upper Adams, but needed help from Tom Baltzley in the second. Baron Sentez traveled the distance for the victory.

NEW OXFORD-GETTYSBURG

New Oxford jumped to a quick 2-0 lead in the first frame, but then cooled off when Lee McCans came into the contest and allowed but one hit the remaining five frames to register the win for Gettysburg. New Oxford scored its two tallies when Dan Sharrer led off with a walk and Greg Ernst followed with a double to left. Steve Klunk then singled up the middle sending in Sharrer and Al Harbaugh sent a single to deep second allowing Ernst to score. Klunk was out attempting to come home on a fielder's choice to Wayne Lawrence and Jack Greenholt fanned, stranding two runners.

Gettysburg knotted the count in the bottom of the second when Ron Jacoby singled and Lee McCans followed with a blast over the right field fence for the winners' first homerun of the tourney. After loading the bases, Gettysburg was forced to settle for the first two runs when the New Oxford defense tightened.

Gettysburg broke the deadlock in the next frame when, with one out, Bob Smith doubled, but was out stretching the play. Jacoby then followed with another double and scored on an infield miscue. Gettysburg pushed across security runs in the fourth and fifth frames to record their first victory of the tourney.

Greg Ernst paced the winners with a pair of hits including a double. Ron Jacoby was the big gun in the Gettysburg attack with a perfect three for three. Jack

SIX MISCUES HELP GIANTS BEAT PIRATES

By MURRAY CHASE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Error, error on the ball, who commits the most of all? Right now it's the Pittsburgh Pirates. They moved into the lead Friday night, making six errors for the second time this season in an 8-6 loss to the San Francisco Giants.

The sloppy performance gave the Pirates 115 for the season and the major league lead, moving them one ahead of the New York Mets.

The performance also cost the Pirates a chance to move closer to the second-place Giants. Two and one-half games separated the teams before the contest.

After it was over, though, the Pirates had dropped from third to fourth place, 3½ behind the San Francisco.

STARTS IN THIRD
Bill Mazeroski, among baseball's best second basemen, led the Pirates' fielding attack with three errors. Third baseman Bob Bailey came next with two while catcher Jim Pagliaroni trailed with one.

Bailey started the debacle in the third inning, throwing away Hal Lanier's grounder. Lanier later scored as Pagliaroni tossed wildly, trying to get the Giant rookie at third.

Lanier again benefited from Bailey's generosity, this time with two out in the fifth. He reached second on Bailey's wild throw and scored on one of Willie Mays' three singles.

TWO BAD FLIPS
Mazeroski caught Bailey with a sudden seventh-inning spurt, flipping the ball away twice, once to home plate.

The Pirates saved perhaps the most damaging error for last. It belonged to Mazeroski and it came on a potential double play grounder in the ninth inning.

The Giants had scored one run and had the bases loaded with one out.

Jose Pagan grounded to Bailey, who threw to Mazeroski for a force play at second. Mays scored from third while this was happening, but the run wouldn't have counted had Mazeroski's throw to first not gone astray.

Matty Alou also came home on the play, giving the Giants an 8-2 lead.

The Pirates then rallied for four runs in their ninth.

In other NL games, Philadelphia whipped Los Angeles 6-1, Cincinnati edged St. Louis 7-6, Milwaukee trampled Chicago 13-3 and New York swept Houston 3-0 and 6-2.

It's been an uphill climb for the Charleston Indians, but they've finally hit the .500 mark.

The Indians made it four in a row over York Friday with a sweep of a double-header, 10-3 and 5-3, that gave them a 50-50 mark in the Class AA Eastern League.

The twin sweep, however, still left the fourth-place Indians 9½ games out of first as they gained only a half game on front-running Springfield, which defeated Elmira, 4-3.

In other action, Williamsport beat second-place Reading, 4-1.

A 14-hit attack featured the opening game win as the Indians had four-run innings in the first and fourth. Huey Howden went the distance to pick up the victory despite giving up 12 hits. He is now 1-1. Don Loun (6-5) was the loser.

The Indians had to go nine innings in the scheduled seven-inning nightcap before pulling out a victory on a walk, a triple by Fred Krase and a single by Chico Cardenas. Krase also belted a two-run homer in the fifth to erase a 1-0 deficit. Tom Kelley (5-6) was the winner, going the entire route. Carlos Medrano (9-5) was the loser.

HITTING — Harmon Killebrew, Minnesota, hit a two-out, two-run homer, his 36th, in the ninth inning, giving the Twins a 4-3 victory over the New York Yankees.

PITCHING — Frank Lary, New York Mets, held Houston to two hits — one an infield single — as the Mets blanked the Colts 3-0 on their way to a double-header sweep.

WINS FEATURE RACE
MECHANICSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Johnny Dubendorf of Lewis-town won the 25-lap feature race for modified stock cars at Williams Grove Speedway Friday night, beating out Dick Tobias of Lebanon by 10 lengths.

Gene Goodling of Stoverstown was third. The winning time was not recorded because of minor spinouts which brought the yellow flag out twice during the race.

Optimist Boys' League

The Bullets assured themselves of at least a tie for first place by nipping the Rifles 4-3 Friday. Bill Reinhart's homer in the last of the sixth inning producing the winning tally.

In the first inning the Bullets scored a run on a triple by David Rosensteel and a fielder's choice.

Singles by R. Monahan and John Olson, plus several errors, gave the Rifles a pair of runs in the top of the fourth. The Bullets came right back with a pair in the bottom of the same inning on singles by Rosensteel, Linn and Bill Reinhart. In the top of the sixth Monahan was able to score on miscues by the Rifles to knot the score.

EX-CHAMPION WINS ON TKO IN TV BATTLE

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Tiger lost his world middleweight crown to Joey Giardello eight months ago but today he felt like a champion again.

It was all because of his stunning six-round technical knockout of eighth-ranked Jose Gonzalez in a nationally televised bout at Madison Square Garden

Building Good Dairy Herd Takes Time, Accurate Data To Eliminate Poor Stock

THOMAS E. PIPER
Adams County Farm Agent

There is nothing mysterious about building a dairy herd, but it can't be done overnight. A few basic principles properly followed will get the job done; know what you want, know what you have, know how you stand, and make the most of the best.

Thomas E. Piper

A real dairyman is the fellow who likes cows; he treats them gently, sees they are well fed, well cared for, comfortable, and contented.

The dairyman who knows what he wants has decided on a breed of cows and has established the goals of production and type for those cows. He must cull closely to achieve his goals.

The fellow who keeps records know what he has. He has his herd enrolled in a testing program, preferably DHIA and also classifies his herd for type, either officially or unofficially.

STUDY RECORDS
The dairyman who knows where he stands takes time out to study his records and decide or himself which cows should be culled, what changes in management practices will pay off, and what bulls should be used to breed what cows.

The true dairyman makes the most of the best by selecting his top cows to mate to the best bulls available. He culls on the basis of sound information rather than sentiment, and he grows his calves properly to get top replacements for top cows.

Shortages of nitrogen, phosphate or potash in soils means low yields and low profits unless corrected by adequate fertilization according to soil test recommendation.

Corn is a good indicator, and the type of corn plant and kind of ears produced usually indicate fertility levels of a soil.

SEEK INDICATIONS
Watch for these indications of deficiencies: A lack of nitrogen causes ears to form that are small and sharply pinched off on the tip. Pollinated kernels fail to fill. Limited nitrogen also causes firing, or yellowing, starting at the leaf tips and proceeding along the midribs of the leaves. First leaves to show deficiency symptoms are the oldest ones on the lower part of the corn stalk.

Phosphate shortages interfere with pollinations. Ears are small, often twisted, with part or entire rows of kernels missing. Purplish-tinted leaves and stalks may also indicate phosphate shortage in young corn plants. Small, weak, spindly stalks producing small twisted ears, or no ears at all, are the most typical deficiency symptoms of phosphate.

DULL KERNELS
Potash starvation results in chaffy-like nubbins with dull colored kernels. Tips of the ears don't fill and kernels are loose on the cob. Potash hunger also is indicated by corn leaves that fire and turn brown along the edges starting at the tip. As nitrogen shortage, leaf firing starts at the bottom of a corn plant.

Any of these plant nutrient deficiency symptoms cause low per acre yields and reduced profits. These deficiency symptoms can be prevented by taking care of fertility problems. Start by having a soil test made; then follow through on the lime and fertilizer recommendations.

There are many diseases that attack foliage, stems and even fruit of our garden vegetables. They are usually worse in home gardens because of limited space and rotation of garden crops.

CARRY DISEASES
These diseases can be carried by untreated seed or diseased plants that are purchased, but also live in old plant parts and related plants or weeds.

Some of the most common vegetable garden diseases are carrot leaf blights, celery blight, onion purple spot, cucumber, and melon diseases, such as leaf spots, wilt and fruit rots. Tomato alternaria canker and fruit ripe rot are well known to the home gardener.

Boy, 16, Is Killed By Piece Of Metal

NORTHAMPTON, Pa. (AP)—A piece of metal flew off a tractor Friday and killed a Northampton boy when it struck him in the chest.

Paul Getz, 16, was working on the farm of Paul Balliet and was helping him separate a tractor from another piece of farm machinery, authorities said. A piece of metal five inches in diameter and about a foot long broke off a casing enclosing the tractor drive shaft and hit Getz in the chest, authorities said. He was dead on arrival at Northampton Osteopathic Hospital.

225 LAID OFF AT NAVY YARD

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Mayor James H. J. Tate says laying off 225 employees at the Philadelphia Navy Yard is uncalled for, "especially since the U.S. Senate just approved a bill for the construction of 53 new ships."

The mayor made the comment Friday after taking a fact-finding tour through the yard just as the 225 workers were laid off. The yard's work force is now down to 7,900 from 9,000 a year ago.

Object of the tour was to give the mayor new information for his continuing attempt to keep the yard open.

Tate said a proposal to convert the yard, at a cost "less than a half-million dollars," to nuclear vessel construction and overhaul has been passed three times by the House of Representatives, but rejected each time by the Senate.

Accompanying the mayor were members of the naval

Even though these diseases can live over and may be in the garden, fungicide sprays can be used to protect the crop and plants. For a few plants, dusts can be satisfactory, but dusts are usually inferior to spray applications. One of the most satisfactory garden fungicides for vegetables is maneb, an 80 per cent wettable powder, which is used at the rate of 1½ tablespoons per gallon (2 pounds per 100 gallons).

Growers must remember that good plant coverage is almost as important as the material that is used.

RUSK STATES U. S. POLICY CAN BE TOUGH

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk says it is unrealistic to expect the Russians to "roll over and play dead" when faced with U.S. demands. Besides, he says, the United States can be tough when it has to be.

This declaration by Rusk at a news conference Friday—that realism and toughness are being pursued together—was by way of reply to Republican charges that the administration has been less than forceful in dealing with the Communists.

"It would be unrealistic to suppose they will roll over and play dead on the basis of anything that we say and do that might affect their vital interests," the secretary said.

ADOPT TOUGHER STANCE

But when a newsman told Rusk that some Republican critics have been suggesting that the United States would be more successful in dealing with the Soviet Union if it adopted a tougher stance, he quickly replied the United States is "just as tough and just as stubborn as is necessary to protect our vital interests."

"We ourselves would not yield to pressures against our vital interests. We have to be cautious about supposing that others would do the same," he said.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the Republican presidential nominee, last June charged the administration with a "weak-kneed" foreign policy and last March said, "We are following the same paths of appeasement that we followed in the 1930s."

Two Charged With Malicious Mischief

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Two Lansdale youths were placed on 18 months probation and ordered to make restitution of $10,000 in damages Friday. They were charged with riding around in a car and shooting at windows last February.

Judge E. Arnold Forrest of Montgomery County common pleas court imposed the sentence on James Weckerly, 18, shipyard committee, his newly formed citizens group, and of the joint committee for yard development, an employee organization which sponsored the tour.

Police said the youths and a younger boy used an air rifle to shoot windows in stores, autos and homes in Lansdale and Upper Merion, Upper Dublin and Hatfield townships.

NAB MAN FOR 1962 SLAYING

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A 49-year-old hospital elevator operator was arrested Friday in connection with the 1962 slaying of the nephew of a chief police inspector.

David Hunt, of Philadelphia, was charged with homicide and held for a hearing today before Magistrate William Bleshman.

Police said they acted on an informer's tip.

A young couple, who was with the victim when the assailant struck, identified Hunt, Capt. Clarence J. Ferguson said.

According to police accounts, the attack came as the victim, Michael Leach, 18, and the couple tried to seize a man who allegedly made obscene remarks at the couple. The assailant struck Leach on the head with a piece of terra cotta pipe, police said. The incident occurred Oct. 14, 1962, in Cobbs Creek Park.

Leach was the nephew of police inspector Robert Selfridge.

DEATH PENALTY IS COMMUTED

ANGOLA, La. (AP)—A death sentence imposed on a Shipensburg, Pa., truck driver for slaying a Slidell variety store clerk, has been commuted to life imprisonment.

Delbert W. Eyer, 32, was released from death row after Gov. John J. McKeithen signed the order reducing his punishment earlier this week.

Eyer was convicted in Covington, La., Oct. 24, 1958, of the fatal shooting of Mrs. Myrtle Jones Pichon, 47, in a variety store in Slidell on June 23, 1958.

Eyer has been an ideal prisoner, Angola officials said. He may be eligible for parole in the future.

At his trial, Eyer testified he hit Mrs. Pichon with a pistol after she accused him of loafing in the store. He said the weapon fired accidentally.

Eyer said he did not recall touching the cash register, which was found broken open on the floor.

Oldest Race Track Destroyed By Fire

SAN BRUNO, Calif. (AP)—Tanforan, oldest race track in California, was a charred ruin today after a fire shot through the abandoned three-story grandstand and club house Friday.

Within minutes, the grandstand wall collapsed into the street, carrying telephone pole with it and disrupting service for hours.

The 64-year-old track on the San Francisco peninsula was

Gals Enlisted For New ABC Navy Comedy, "Broadside," To Be Aired In September; Joan Staley Defends Dumb Blondes

By RUTH E. THOMPSON

"I didn't want just to wriggle through a one-line career. Now, of course, I won't have to."

"You see the blonde I play on 'Broadside' isn't really dumb. Naive is more like it. She became Stripper because, as she puts it, 'I never learned to type so what else could I do?'"

Blonde and beautiful comedienne Joan Staley was speaking up not only in defense of her own "character" but for the whole feminized "McHale's Navy" which bows (also on ABC) Sunday, September 20, 8:30 - 9 p.m.

NOT AN ACCIDENT

The similarity, by the way, is no accident. Both the-him-and-the-her versions of Navy life on a Pacific island are the brain children of executive producer Edward J. Montagne.

"McHale's Navy," now in its fifth year will be staying on in its familiar Tuesday night period.

Starring in "Broadside," as our den mother, a lieutenant," is Kathleen Nolan, "the only non-nut among us."

"Us, the crew," in addition to Joan, are Sheila James and Lois Roberts.

"On camera our characters are so distinctive there's plenty of room for interplay."

GET ALONG WELL

"Off camera, from the very first day of the pilot, we found we all got along great so there's been no stepping on each other's toes. We visit each other's house, stuff like that."

"And Kathy was the only one I'd known before. We met when she was playing in 'The Real McCoys' and I guested." (By the by, now that she's headlining, the billing has formalized to Kathleen.)

WAR IS . . . FUN (?)

"Mmmm. This looks like a fun war!" is Sheila's first line when as a man-crazy WAVE she Producers saw Joan Staley as a Marilyn Monroe after she appeared in the TV version of "Asphalt Jungle." The Army chaplain's actress daughter, however, aspires toward "Carole Lombard type roles." Come September she'll be seen in "Broadside" (Sundays, 8:30 p.m., ABC) as an ex-stripper who's joined the Waves.

checks into her idea of paradise, so funny," chides Joan. "A lar" men in this gals' Navy.

Just to make sure that war in "Broadside" IS fun, the writers are aiming for the McHale zaniness. They've also added one of the Bilko sure-fire touches. This quartet of distaffers mans a motor pool.

"No, that's the part that's not least nobody on the back lot at Universal thought so the day I practiced backing up a big jeep. We all drive sports cars which isn't much help . . . this is like handling a small tank. Why the Teamsters have made all of us honorary members!"

There are also a few "regu-

Trim Dick Sergeant tries to save acerbic commander Edward Andrews from all those shenanigans and all those ulcers.

"ULCER HONORS"

Then there's the candidate for legitimate ulcer honors, Jimmy Boyd. As Marion Botnick his first name accidentally lands him billeting in the WAVE'S quonset hut. (Yes, he's the cute youngster who caught Mommy kissing Santa Claus to the tune of a million record sales. That was 1952. Now he's 15.)

"Huh?" That's the best you muster when Joan Staley says "this is just the part I've been waiting for." From the minute she was born in Minneapolis 25 years ago, she doesn't seem to have waited—or wasted—a single minute.

PLAYED VIOLIN

At five she debuted as a violinist in a children's orchestra. At six she appeared solo in the Hollywood Bowl. She also, the same year, appeared fleetingly in "The Emperor Waltz" with Bing Crosby and Joan Fontaine.

Then she went back to "school" which added up to 15 grammar schools and four high schools before she graduated (in Paris) at 15 with grades so good that Boston's Peabody Conservatory waived entrance examinations.

She enrolled instead, however, at Chapman College in California "because my folks had been transferred back there."

ONLY CHILD

An only child, she rhapsodizes when she speaks of "the folks." Her father, Lt. Col. James K. McConchie, a former missionary, is now an Army chaplain. It never hurt her to be a rolling stone Joan explains because, "home is not a physical structure. It's a stable life and gove. That my wonderful parents have always given me."

"Why yes, Dad sure does approve of show business. He's my biggest rooter. He is grateful, though that I'm happening to the Navy and not the Army."

"You know somebody else I owe a lot to is Karl Moldren who taught me violin. If anybody knows where he is now, I wish they'd let me know, though I quit the violin at Chapman because it was a singly study plan."

"NO MONEY"

She quit Chapman after a year, too. "No money."

When Our TV Readers Write

If you ever fear that you may be overbleached something in the wash dilute some vinegar or lemon fast, rinse the fabrics in the dilution.

These are the things listed as antidotes in case you should accidentally swallow bleach... but they're also the right antidotes for overuse on fabrics.

This may be the time of year to pass on my tip about keeping a "sand box" at home.

Last year, when I vacationed at the shore, my feet that had been thick with callouses for years smoothed down to supple rosy skin after just a few days of walking barefoot in the sand.

So I begged a corrugated carton from the coffee stand nearby scooped up about five pounds of the beach's powdery fine sand and took it home.

Throughout the year, a couple of times a week, I've moistened my feet and scrunched through the sand treadmill style before my shower. It's worked wonders. Much quicker than pumice.

I don't know if children's shoes wear longer if you put trees in them between wearings but I can tell you they sure look better longer.

I've always been careful to put trees into my own pumps when I take them off, but it never occurred to me that the same trick would keep the kid's shoes from getting hopelessly creased. Tightly packed half sheets of newspaper, by the way, stuffed into the toes serve very nicely.

Gals Enlisted

seemed destined for the top in any job she took. By lying about her age she got training as an acting-trainer in a brokerage firm, was selected for management training by a computer firm until they found she was 16, not 21. She also married TV producer Charles Staley, got a job as a fashion coordinator and had a baby. (Her daughter Sherry is now five.)

When her marriage ended in 1961 she moved back to Los Angeles, took a daytime office job, did little theater work at night. She turned "pro" by accident. Visiting the "Perry Mason" set she climbed a ladder to get out of the way, promptly got a bit part. Since then it's been a couple of dozen movie, countless television roles.

FAVORS LOMBARD

Comedy blondes got to be her forte after she landed the Marilyn Monroe part in the TV version of "Asphalt Jungle."

Though she admired Monroe, she sees herself more as a latter-day Carole Lombard. "Along with Ernie Kovacs, she's one of my true idols. Why? Well she was chic; she was a good actress; she was funny. Not dumb, though. And always a lady. And always sexy."

So if you want to see a Carole Lombard-style strip teaser keep your eye out for the blondest of the "Broadside" cutie-quartet. Looks like clear sailing ahead.

Philip Coolidge Plays A Political Advisor On The ABC-TV Farmer's Daughter

A lean bachelor with a lively wit, Philip Coolidge plays Cooper, political advisor to Congressman Morley (William Windom), with a Yankee twang that is particularly suited to his role in ABC-TV's new comedy-drama series, "The Farmer's Daughter."

Coolidge was born 54 years ago in Concord, Mass., the youngest of eight children. He attended some ten different preparatory schools in Concord and Boston, and has a distinguished ancestry which includes a distant relationship to President Coolidge.

At 17, Philip landed his first job as an ordinary seaman on an oil tanker. He followed this "distasteful" job with positions of announcer, copy writer and advertising salesman for radio stations in Boston and Worcester.

PLAYS BIT PARTS

Two years later he entered the theatrical profession playing bit parts with a small repertory company in Boston. This organization soon went out of business, and Philip migrated to Chicago and the World's Fair (1933) where he received his first real groundwork as an actor with a Shakespearean repertory company, playing seven different dates each day and eight on Sundays. In the company were Carl Benton Reid and Martha Scott, with Iden Payne and Thomas Wood Stevens as directors.

Coolidge returned to the East — and New York — where his first Broadway appearance, as the drunken organist in "Our Town," cemented forever his relationship with the world of the theater.

In 20 PLAYS

Since then, he has appeared in some 20 Broadway plays, including "Family Portrait," "Margin of Error," "Merchant of Yonkers," "Jacobowsky and the Colonel," "Darkness at Noon," "The Crucible," "Kismet" and others.

He was something of a pioneer in television in that he appeared regularly in a CBS quiz show originating from New York's Grand Central Station in 1942. He has had featured roles on most of the CBS-TV programs, including "Playhouse 90," "Climax," "The Defenders" and many, many others.

His feature film credits include "The Wind," "Sharkfighters" and more recently, the role of Herod's advisor in "The Greatest Story Ever Told." In fact, he shaved off the beard he had grown for the biblical filmplay just in time to take on his role of Clancy in the first segment of "The Farmer's Daughter."

Maxine Stuart To Get Regular Role

Maxine Stuart has been signed for a regular role on the "Slattery's People" new hour-long series starring Richard Srenna. (CBS, September 21).

Making his television drama debut is George Hamilton. Long considered a television hold-out, Hamilton will star in a Bob Hope Theater offering as a Korean War defector. The air date has not yet been announced. Erstwhile child star Margaret O'Brien will co-star.

The Bob Hope Theater also gets the long awaited "first drama written especially for television by noted playwright William Inge."

NO SAD SONGS

The New Christy Minstrels, unlike their hundred-years-ago predecessors, omit minstrel jokes and sad songs.

Last January they introduced hootenanny-ing to the White House when President Johnson gave a dinner for Italy's President Segni.

Miss O'Shea To Join New Series On TV

Good to hear that Tessie O'Shea who scored so socko in "The Girl Who Came to Supper" is joining the talent-loaded "The Entertainers" series headlined by Carol Burnett. Tessie, whose Eddie Sullivan debut coincided with The Beatles' debut did more than all right for herself. Though she plays it for laughs, Tessie has a really beautiful face, reminiscent in a more round way of the late Kay Kendall.

Well, it took the convention year to bring Huntley and Brinkley together. They worked together, out of the same booth at the Republican Convention in San Francisco, will do the same in Atlantic City. Though one hears them say the "Good Night Chet, Good Night David" routine one does forget that as a rule Chet is good-nighting from New York and David from Washington.

Figures: Carson City, Nev., declared itself "Johnny Carson City" for one day while the on-leave "Tonight" star was warming up his nightclub act in Las Vegas. Got to go to lunch at the governor's mansion and other VIP stuff like that. Incidentally he's broken all Sahara records including Judy Garland's.

Carson gets back to "Tonight" the first week in August. And . . . the first week in August is when his morning counterpart, Hugh Downs of "Today" takes off for summer stock. He'll appear in "Love and Kisses" in Warren and Columbus, Ohio.

James Garner will be in Birmingham, Mich., at the end of August to host a "television curtain raiser" for the World Golf Championship. The half-hour special (on CBS) is set for the night before golfing events gets going.

Garner, incidentally, is reported to be a good golfer himself. And in case you've never heard, Ed Sullivan (one of TV's better golf nuts) caddied years ago with another chap who turned out to be a good golfer, name of Gene Sarazen.

Also taking on a sports show assignment this year is Rafer Johnson, 1960 Olympics decathlon champion. He'll go to Tokyo for Olympic Games coverage in October.

Commercials Can Be Bane Of Viewers

Clink goes the ice.
Pour goes the liquid.
Slurp goes the drinker.
And purr goes the announcer with, "Now there's nothing so refreshing these hot days as a nice cold glass of glop." No brand names please . . . the glop in question might be tea, or oodas or whatever . . . anything that you'd pant for when the T.H.I. is over 72 per cent.

They used to say there's nothing as stale as yesterday's news. Update that. There's nothing as stale as yesterday's hot-weather commercial when the rains have come overnight and you, in a sweater, crave nothing as much as hot soup.

Tomorrow — when it may be sizzling again — is as remote as yesterday.

How can "they" at the radio and television stations air these bloopers?

Well, "they" try hard not to. If whoever is marketing your favorite cola gambles on hot-weather copy to make you drink even more, his ad agency usually supplies several kinds of price tags. There can even be little instructions like: "A" to be used only when temperature is over 80 degrees."

ARE THEY CRAZY?

But if you're human enough to be affronted ("What are they, crazy or something? Light the oven, we'll stay in the kitchen, maybe it'll help") well "they" are human enough to err. Because everybody's got a system. Yesterday down at the radio station a perspiring traffic clerk phoned in her third complaint, "Joe, the air conditioning's STILL not working" wiped her forehead and put "Copy A" in the announcer's folder just by 5 p.m. deadline.

She's got her orders you see. ("No copy changes accepted after 5 p.m.") So has the announcer. Ditto the engineer if it's recorded.

Next day the announcer turns up his collar against the belatedly repaired air conditioning. He sails into "Copy A" and burbles on about "these hot days." He's probably finished before he knows what he's said. Now isn't that enough to turn you against XYZ's icy liquid refreshment the rest of your life?

No. Maybe tomorrow it really will be hot.

Who's going to remember yesterday's weather. Who cares about yesterday's commercial.

Bottoms up!

End Summer "Shooting"

The summer shooting hiatus has ended and the sound stages are alive again with television series in-the-making. Both old and new series are bidding for "name" guest stars . . . and the new ones in some cases are only now rounding out their regular casts.

Among those already at work is Agnes Moorehead, who'll play the witch-mother of modern-day witch bride Elizabeth Montgomery in "Samantha." Dick York plays the young husband.

Caterina Valenta brings one more star name to the already star-studded CBS "Entertainers" series which already has Carol Burnett and Bob Newhart.

Frank Sutton got the co-star spot with Jim Nabors in "Gomer Pyle — USMC" in which the erstwhile gas station attendant on the "Andy Griffith Show" took off for the Marine Corps (fictional) and a series of his own. Aaron Ruben, who continues as Griffith's producer, will produce the "Gomer" series too.

A Bigger House For Your Wider Horizon?

Electrical Heating Called "Much Wanted"

"Let's say that moving from an electrically heated house TO an electrically heated house—is going to save you re-sale problems on the old, and give you a new home that's got its value built right in, too."

Thus a clever lady realtor explains what she considers the ideal "trading up" situation. Trading to first-time electrical heating is more common, though.

"You see, if you're 'trading up' because you need a larger home (or maybe just want a more luxurious one) you're unloading only because where your present house doesn't suit is in the size, or the gloss. But whatever its size, with an electrical heating system you're got quality property to sell—you'll get a fair price from purchasers who aren't going to run into mortgage financing problems all other things in their situation being acceptable, of course.

"But, since electrical heating is still pretty new, maybe you haven't been lucky enough to be living with it these last few days. So treat yourself to better luck this time on your 'trade up.'"

Favorable features of electrical home heating systems include:

- Long, trouble-free life expectancy. "The Life of the House" is the industry standard for the life expectancy of properly installed electrical heating equipment.

Also, maintenance is negligible.

- Electrical heating, in a house built to the insulation standards recommended brings two "comfort - perfection" factors to bear. Electrical heating itself is instant and efficient. When paired with draft-free construction, nothing is wasted.
- There are no added problems of fuel ordering, fuel storage. Electrical heating is ready when you want it. Temperatures are selectable on a room-by-room thermostat basis.

There's always a hot-weather plus, too. Your electrically heated house is comfortable in the summer too, when "the heat's off." The good house construction insulated out the summer's sun, as effectively as it fends off winter blasts.

And . . . if you choose to air-condition . . . you'll of course be getting more efficient performance, plus fuel savings from good insulation. It works for you year around.

QUESTION BOX

Q. Is there an "average age" figure for buyers who've been buying electrically heated houses these past few years? I seem to have read it some place.

A. "Average" in relation to home buying means just about as much as does with "average" anything else!

Your shrewd young couple, buying their first home, are one group of "typicals" . . . but so is the retired businesswoman, who's settling down to community work and socializing. She's more than likely to choose electricity, too, once she knows its advantages. The figures available — and the ones which you may have read — are pretty general and go something like this.

—Buyers of first homes average under 30 in age.

—Buyers of "second" (or third, or fourth) homes in the luxury class average around 38, the indication being, of course, that with increased income, more expensive houses become possible.

Electrical heating — with the quality equal in all sizes—is available in both the economy and luxury models.

Q. We are planning a 30 by 18 foot living room arch at the north end into an 11 by 8 foyer. We're planning a scenic and mirror wall treatment which should give an effect of spaciousness as well as softness.

What kind of electrical heating units would you suggest so as not to detract . . . and how can they be placed to avoid the ornamental wall?

A. Neither electrical baseboards, nor radiant ceiling are going to interfere at all with the decor. If your contractor suggests the ceiling cable, of course it's not even visible.

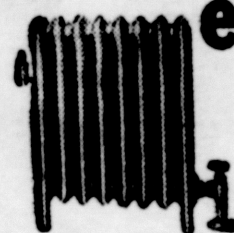

If he feels baseboard will be better for you, let him choose the placement. After all, they are only as high as your baseboards anyway. Even on your ornamental wall, they'll be totally unobtrusive. But PLEASE for a lifetime of efficiency, let the expert decide.

How are you going to heat

...your new home?

...the rooms you're adding on?

...the porch enclosure?

with this?

or this?
